Want to know our class?
Let's go!

Hi, my name is Aditya Biju. I am a student of 9 IG A. As a 15-year-old who lived a relatively normal life, the coronavirus outbreak was one of, if not the most, significant events of my life. Right before it hit, my life was a constant rhythm that revolved around my home and school in Kuwait. Now, a year and a half later, I am studying at TRINS via online classes.

High school, a time of excitement and dread for students. Choosing my subjects was easy enough but the difficulty lay in the fact that the classes were on an online platform and the timetables were much different from what I was accustomed to (due to differences in time zones). Not to mention, the increased difficulty of the studies and the new subjects.

However, my fellow classmates were very welcoming and the teachers were extremely supportive, allowing me to easily get used to high school life. Overall, my high school experience is quite pleasant but then again, this is just year 1.

Hello! I am Angel. I have been in TRINS for the past 9 years, and throughout my journey, which is still ongoing, I have really had a great time. More than a year ago, the school had to close due to COVID and classes commenced online.

This was completely new for me, and having classes virtually was something I needed to adapt to very quickly. The teachers, my friends, and my parents constantly supported me, giving me a good experience in virtual classes. The theme of adaptability came into play big time, and I am proud to say that my school has done an excellent job in making the virtual classes a fun experience for everyone, and quickly adapting to these current circumstances.

This has been my first year in high school, and I would say that classes are going quite well. All the teachers are friendly and ready to answer and clarify questions at any point in time. My classmates are supportive, which has made my time during virtual classes much more fun and enjoyable. My experience so far has been good, and I am hoping to have an amazing year ahead.

The Tomorrow War

I recently watched the movie The Tomorrow War, directed by Chris McKay. It was a movie starring Chris Pratt, who in the movie, was a character named Dan Forester. It was a science fiction movie of a time 30 years from now.

The basic plot is like this: an urgent message comes from the future (2051), asking for help from the people to fight inhuman monsters that the Earth is currently overrun by. Machines are not enough to fight the deadly monsters, and only a few return back alive. One of the people going to the future is Dan Forester (Chris Pratt), who is determined to return to see his daughter, Muri Forester.

I actually like everything about the movie, and the themes they portray are just amazing. It is actually a different kind of Sci-fi movie, giving us a glimpse into the possible future for that specific plot. The movie included everything I was looking for - action, hope, adventure! The movie also had a good sense of humor, and mostly, it showed the determination of a father to make things right, not to just save the world, but to save his daughter! The movie had a certain plot twist, and the ending was also really good! The movie included things from real life, and some futuristic ideas, which mixed and merged together to give an amazing, fun-filled plot, which I really enjoyed watching!

The movie portrays love for family, and determination to survive, and save the world. The movie, which was very futuristic, was excellent, and a fun movie to watch. I would recommend this movie to anyone who loves science fiction movies, and loves little adventure, action and suspense!

Enola Holmes

Enola Holmes is a PG-13 movie that streamed on Netflix in 2020. It is a mystery thriller that brings a breath of fresh air to Baker street, written by Nancy Springer and directed by Harry Bradbeer.

It's plot revolves around an intrepid teen, Enola Holmes, using her sleuthing skills to outsmart big brother Sherlock and help a runaway lord.

Enola is played by Millie Bobby Brown, Sherlock by Henry Cavil, Mycroft by Sam Claflin, and the runaway lord aka Lord Tewksbury is played by Louis Partridge.

This movie is an enjoyable romp, dominated by the sparkling personality of Enola (Brown). Director Harry Bradbeer uses playful graphics and other inventive storytelling techniques which add much to the light, enjoyable tone of this film.

And along with offering a fresh spin on the literary mythology of the Holmes siblings, Enola Holmes makes a strong case for Millie Bobby Brown as the face of a new franchise set within that world. Buoyant and precocious without being even slightly annoying, Brown has pinpoint comic timing, infectious perk, and a wholesome, tomboyish aura that adds much to the plot.

Overall, Enola Holmes is the kind of movie that the preteen set will surely delight in and watch over and over. I know because I have.

How I Met Your Mother

I love everything about this show. It has successfully revealed the cycle of life explaining how we meet people and before we know it they get to be our family. It has proven time and again that family is not just blood ties.

Lily and Marshall's love story has blossomed into something beautiful. Lily's character as a friend, a wife, and a daughter gets me thinking of my mother, supportive, honest, caring, and loving. Robin's search for a successful career brings her close to what is going to be the best friendship of all time, her view of marriage, relationships, and kids is challenged as she becomes a romantic.

Barney is a well-played character, a (player) mid-thirty-year-old guy with no intentions of settling in a relationship. This however changes as he meets Robin and falls in love. Marshall totally overtakes the whole show, he's portrayed as a loving, calm, collected fellow. The real feather in the cup is how he relates with his wife Lily- they are both known as couple goals.

Lastly, Ted, his search for his perfect woman, with the never-ending heartbreaks is just amazing. His positive outlook on life and the universe, in general, is adorable. Yes, we all waited to meet her and when we finally did, it was nothing but awesome. The show, besides being entertaining, has given me the most important life lessons. It has shown growth, love, sadness, passion, strength, and true friendship.

T.G.I.F!

After a frustrating week of having to wake up to the loud blares of my alarm while deep in sleep, the weekend is something I look forward to a lot. Friday, in particular, is something to look forward to, because even though I still have classes, every Friday night is a period of either sleep or relaxation.

Usually, I try to get into pyjamas or some of my most comfy clothes on Friday's and if fate's on my side it may rain and I can open the windows and let the cool air in.

Then if I get lucky, I may find some snacks or drinks in the house to take with me to my room.

I have to sneak them out of the kitchen though so my brother doesn't ask me to share. That includes a whole stealth and distraction plan to be done.

Even if I don't have comfy clothes, the weather is terrible, and there aren't any snacks (or worse I have to share), I still have my computer. I recently started watching a lot of TV Shows and each episode is about one hour long. Hence, my sleep schedule gets messed up due to my constant curiosity about "what happens next". ▶

However, the best part of any Friday night whether I am lucky or not will always be sleeping.

TOKYO OLYMPICS AND PARALYMPICS

-Adwaith

A proudful recap

The 2020 Tokyo Olympics was a marvellous spectacle for all sports fans around the globe. From a dazzling opening ceremony to the much-awaited games and matches we witnessed, the Olympics were a large highlight of this year.

As the Tokyo Olympics came to a close, India was made proud by the efforts of our star athletes who broke our previous performance record at the 2012 London Games and set the bar higher for our future athletes.

India had its best-ever medal haul of 7 medals and its first gold in a track-and-field event. Neeraj Chopra was the star athlete who made our country proud and brought home a gold medal with his exceptional javelin throw of 87.58 m. Many Indians were glowing with pride when our National Anthem played in the stadium.

However, Chopra wasn't the only person who made us proud. PV Sindhu bagged her second Olympic medal since Rio de Janeiro, winning a bronze. She is the first Indian woman to achieve this feat.

After four decades of constant disappointment, the Indian men's hockey team grabbed bronze for the country making it India's 12th Olympic medal in the category after nearly 41 years.

Mirabai Chanu from Manipur clinched a sliver in the 49kg category, ending the country's 21-year wait for a medal in weightlifting and lifting the nation's spirits.

Ravi Dahiya stormed his way into the 57kg freestyle wrestling event and fetched a silver. His intense stamina and strength impressed us all.

Lovlina Borgohain became the third Indian boxer ever to finish on the podium in the Olympics by bagging a bronze medal in the 69kg category.

Finally, to round of all the nation's winners, 27-year-old Bajrang Punia made an impressive feat by fetching a bronze medal in wrestling.

In total India finished at 48th place in the overall ranking with the USA in first, China at second, and Japan at third.

Arigato and we will see you in Paris !

My pet cat - By Aman Nivin

My pet cat's name is bob
He likes to lick the door knobs
And he hates my neighbors' dogs
He likes eating corn on cobs

Although he wishes not to bath
I always take him for a bath
And when his fur puffs up I always laugh
When looking at the clock
He just stares at it

I love my pet cat
Whose name is bob
I love the way he runs and walks
I will love him no matter what
Because he is my pet cat bob

The Leaf

by Noreen

There thou art,
hanging on to thy source of life,
with the ample strength thee hasn't hath left,
pouring all thy hope onto the thin, frail stem.
with thy intentions to be the source of energy
for the tree that gave life to thee,
thee hangeth on,
trying not to number thy day.
but what may best be done
at which hour thou art already decaying inside, at which hour all that is left is to wither on the outside,
- one of the many.

Murgh Makhani

BUTTER CHICKEN

Murgh Makhani or rather the Butter Chicken have and always has been one of my favorite sides to have and even just as a stand-alone, the curry is amazing. The meat would be tender enough to bite and enjoy to your heart wishfulness and the curry only enhances the chicken to taste more creamy so that you get the visual of butter melting in your mouth - like one of those excruciatingly painful to watch food advertisements.

Ingredients:

- 1 ½ tbsp unsalted butter
- 5 green cardamom pods lightly crushed
- 1" cinnamon stick
- 4 cloves
- 1 small onion finely chopped
- 1 heaped tbsp grated ginger
- 2 green chillies slit lengthwise
- 1 tsp kashmiri chilli powder (or mild paprika)
- ½ tsp garam masala powder
- 3 tbsp tomato puree
- 150mls double cream
- 2 tbsp honey
- 1 tbsp Kasoori methi/ fenugreek leaf powder
- Salt to taste
- Chopped coriander for garnish

Pro Tip:

Remember not to add the butter and cream before the sauce has had a chance to cool down which would cause the sauce to be too thin which will make your Butter Chicken bland and tasteless.

This was my first experience in organizing the class magazine. Editing and collecting the works from the class was an amazing experience, and compiling them was even more fun. This presented a whole new experience to get to know my classmates better, and arrange their endless talents and contributions to share it with everyone. I had a great time collaborating with my fellow team mates, and we helped each other to make this magazine a success, without their collaboration and patience, this magazine would not be what it is today! A big thank you to our class teachers, Ms Leema and Mr. Subash, my team members, and all my classmates for making this possible!

Working on this magazine was a very effacious and valuable experience, for me. The process was long in making, but yielded quite a satisfactory result. This opportunity was an absolute virtue, as I've been able to let myself indulge in graphic designing and much more, definitely a skill to keep working on. Hoping the magazine was as enjoyable and entertaining to read as it was in making it. The illimitable talents, keep soaring, and the rest of the year, keep rocking.

This experience has been very memorable for me. Until last year, I had never taken much interest in graphic design or video editing, but I think it has become one of my newfound interests now. However, my favourite part of this whole experience was working with the rest of the people on the team. Even though I loved designing and editing, working on it with everyone else just made the experience more fun. We had great fun in our meetings doing everything together. I want to thank all my classmates and my class teachers Ms Leema and Mr Subash for all the content they provided us with and I feel proud of the work that we have done and I hope you all enjoyed reading it as much as we did making it!

The magazine was interesting and fun to work on. While making this magazine I got to learn a lot about my classmates. It was really fun designing the pages. The team that I worked with was very hardworking, understanding, co-operative and I'm surprised about the fact that they have so much interesting and fun ideas. I'm very thankful to Ms. Leema, Mr Subash and all the students of 9 I G A for the very amazing content.
